Why Solid Wood?

Solid as the word applies to wood, means the material is the same throughout. There isn't a surface layer. It can be carved into at will. In fact, any form other than flat and square is more readily available. We can turn, incise, bevel, saddle or pretty much do whatever we want with it. Each piece of wood will have edge grain, side grain, and end grain, all of which are diverse and interesting. This malleability (however slow) can yield a tactile result that isn't available in any other material. A delight to the fingers and as well as the eye. Solid wood can be rejuvenated. The surfaces can be sanded down and refinished. Each tree is different, even within the same species. Some are old, some are young. Some are tall, some are short. Some are twisted and gnarly, others upright. Some are light, some are dark. As the twig is bent, so grows the tree. Dry years slow growth. Storms cause damage. Winters can be hard. What all this leads to is character. Throughout the unique character, of this will prevail, providing successive owners with a rich experience. It is fashionable, now, to speak of susceptibility with its implication of superior value. With a bit of care it will last forever.

Solid. Wood. The benchmark for quality.

Too Dry Will Damage Your Furniture!!!

PLEASE TURN ON THE
HUMIDIFIER I AM DRYING

Owners Please Note: to keep your solid wood furniture from cracking and the joints from coming apart, you MUST maintain the humidity between 35%RH to 55%RH every day of the year. This will prevent damage when its in your house, garage, basement or in storage. You can purchase a humidity gauge from your local hardware store. Also please remember never set your furniture close to a heat register and avoid direct sunlight.

Caring for your new furniture.

Easy-care tips that will enhance your solid wood furniture:

- 1) Maintain the humidity between 35%RH to 55%RH every day of the year.
- 2) Store table leaves in close proximity to table or in the same humidity and avoid storing leaves in damp basements where the leaves may swell.
- 3) Avoid placing furniture close to heat registers.

Green Commitment

Green Friendly Furniture,

One of the most important but often overlooked aspects of green products (and this definitely goes for furniture) is durability. If something is built with solid wood, dovetail drawers and finished with premium conversion varnish, this lessens the chance that it'll end up in the landfill, and could easily save you money in the long run, even if it's initially more expensive. Durable goods that will last a long time can be passed on from person to person. Even if your style changes and that kitchen table isn't your thing anymore, a good strong table will almost always be appealing to someone else, while a broken (and unfixable) one probably won't.

When it's time to part with your possessions, think of Craigslist, Kijiji, or eBay, and find it a new home. Solid wood is by nature an environmentally friendly, natural and renewable resource. Compared to particle core and MDF veneer furniture which contains high concentrates of formaldehyde and other respiratory irritants, solid wood is far superior.

Most items are blanket wrapped during handling. We find it protects our furniture very well. It also dramatically reduces the waste foam, cardboard and plastic that is normally sent to the landfills.

We source our lumber from suppliers with a known commitment to responsible forestry management and are under the Forest Stewardship Council's rules for well managed forests. The sawdust is used for livestock bedding, and drop off wood we can't use for color chips is used to heat homes during the winter.

In our finishing process we use solar heat and cogeneration of electricity to reduce the green house gas emissions emitted. We recycle our solvents to reduce the waste that we send to MOE certified processors that give a second life to the material.
